RUSSIA IN HARD POSITION

Difficulty With Austria and Turkey

MUCH DISSATISFACTION

With Foreign Minister—Blamed for Defensive Stand Abroad—The Letter Which Caused Bombard's Recall Published.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 8.—The reports of a Turkish mobilization in Armenia and the threatened movements of troops on the Russian-Persian frontier are admitted by the general staff. It is not known yet whether this action on the part of Turkey is directed against Russia, and measures so far taken by this country are confined to certain precautionary disposition of units within the Caucasus. Foreign diplomats here believe that Russia and Turkey are engaged in a game which neither is desirous of carrying to an extreme, although Turkey might be willing to go far, relying upon the supposed weakness of Russia because of her quarrel with Austria over the Macedonian question.

The prestige of M. Iswolsky, the foreign minister, has suffered severely on account of the defensive attitude that Russia has been compelled to assume in the matter of Austria's defection over Macedonian railroad construction and the failure to establish stable order in Persia, but the anticipated retirement of the minister is attributed here more to the interior situation than to international influences.

The attack on M. Iswolsky is part of a general campaign—the Pan-Slavist leaders have been conducting against the government. The Conservatives also are dissatisfied at Russia's failure to play a bigger role in the world's diplomacy, which would turn attention from home troubles, forgetting the argument advanced by M. Iswolsky that it was impossible to adopt a forward policy until the country had recovered from the depression of the war. Internal conflicts and the absence of positive results from his policies brought to M. Iswolsky no supporters. He was attacked on the one hand for failing to protect more energetically against the encroachment of the opposition parties were receiving in French official circles, and on the other hand by his friendship for Germany, to which he was temperamentally inclined. A well-posted diplomat said yesterday that it is now doubtful whether M. Iswolsky would receive the appointment to the Embassy at Berlin to which lately it was supposed he would be given on the laying down of the post by Count von Otten-Sacken, the present Russian ambassador to Germany who is soon to retire. The foreign minister's controversy with Austria, however, is not likely to contribute to his popularity in Germany. M. Iswolsky recently said in the course of a conversation that he would like to go to Washington, but there seems to be no possibility at present of such an appointment.

The Habitual Command.
At Heidelberg the students have been forbidden to greet the professors with applause in the class rooms. It is told of Lord Kelvin that at Glasgow university he used to define an ideal magnet as "an infinitely long, infinitely thin, uniform and uniformly magnetized bar."

This was always received with applause by the class, and the professor always said "Silence!" One day the students omitted the applause, but all the same Lord Kelvin mechanically exclaimed "Silence!"—Philadelphia Ledger.

NIGHTS OF UNREST.

No peace for the kidney sufferer—Pain and distress from morn to night. Get up with a lame back. Twinges of backache bother you all day.

Dull aching breaks your rest at night. Urinary disorders add to your misery. Get at the cause—strengthen the kidneys. Doan's Kidney Pills will work the cure.

They're for the kidneys only—Have made great cures in Barre. Mrs. Margaret Reid of 40 Maple avenue, Barre, Vt., says: "For more than three years I was bothered off and on with severe backache. At night I would suffer so severely that I could not sleep and arose mornings feeling tired and unrefreshed. During bad weather I was always worse and although I wore plaster I obtained only temporary relief. Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended to me and I sent to E. A. Drown's drug store for a box. They helped me from the first and I continued using the remedy until the pains in my back were relieved and I could rest better nights. My health was improved in every way and I am glad to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills whenever occasion arises.
